Land for Sale.

A tract or parcel of Land, containing between two and three hundred acres, on the north side of Occoquan, in Fairfax county, about 5 miles west of Occoquan mills. It is well watered with never failing springs, it is also well timbered, and the great quantity of fur timber on it renders it the more valuable to any person in the coopering line. This land is of the middle soil, and produces corn, wheat or any other grain tolerable well—there is about 100 acres cleared and under good fence. The improvements are a log dwelling house & other out houses, and a good apple orchard of about sixty trees.

ALSO,

One other tract in the same county, within three miles of Occoquan, lying on Sandy Run, containing 47 acres—one half in cultivation and under good fence, the remainder heavily timbered. There are on the premises an old framed dwelling house and out houses and an apple orchard of eighty bearing trees.

Any person inclining to purchase can view the premises and know the terms by applying to the subscriber who lives near them.

Fauquier Lands.

THE subscriber offers for sale the Estate whereon he resides in the county of Fequier, about 8 miles below the court-house, on Cedar-Run, between the roads leading to Fredericksburgh and Occoquan, 30 miles distant from either place, and 40 to Alexandria by the turnpike, from Buckland. The tract is computed at

Three thousand three hundred and seventy Acres, and is divided into three farms, with Woodland and Meadows, conveniently distributed for each. There is a Valuable Mill Seat,

with stone on the spot for building.—The stream is abundant, and waters the whole tract, presenting an extent of

Four or five hundred Acres of Low Grounds of first quality.—The high land is well divided into regular fields, some of them very productive, and is adapted to the use of Plaister. Few tracts can possess greater advantages either for extensive grazing or grain culture.

The purchaser or purchasers of the land, can be accommodated with the farming utensils, the crops of Corn and the sown Wheat—the stock of Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Hogs; and with the Negroes on the estate in families, making about 150, of a very valuable description, with some tradesmen.

The improvements are a comfortable Dwelling House, with good out Houses, Ice House, Stables, &c. The situation is healthy and the water uncommonly good. Two thirds of the whole purchase money will be required at the delivery of the property, the balance in short payments with interest and secured by deed of trust.

Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, Nov. 14.

Five French mails are now due. The weather is become more moderate, but the wind continues unfavorable for an arrival from France. Serious apprehensions are entertained for the safety of the Iris French packet, of which our Dover Letter yesterday contained an account.

The following notice has been published in some of the newspapers, and was yesterday posted up in promine t parts of the most public streets and places:

At a meeting held at Carlisle, Shoreditch, on Thursday evening, the 7th of November instant, it was determined to call a meeting of the Distressed Manufacturers, Mariners, Artisans, and others, of the cities of London and Westminster, the Borough of Southwark, and parts adjacent, to take into consideration the propriety of petitioning the Prince Regent and Legislators to adopt immediately such means as will relieve the sufferers from the misery which now overwhelms them.

JOHN DYALL, Chairman.
THOS. PRESTON, Secretary.

Carnot has left Warsaw, having repaired to Berlin to solicit an asylum from the king of Prussia. His majesty allotted Magdeburg for his residence, which he is not to leave without permission.

The growing electioneering dissentions in the city of Gloucester has induced the Lord Bishop of the Diocese to issue a pastoral charge to the inhabitants of that city, especially to the electors.

A very fine regiment of infantry, the 86th, is under immediate orders to proceed to Manchester to strengthen the force under the command of J. Byng, in the northern district.

Prime beef and pork were sold on Saturday last in Chester market at from 3 1 2 to 4d per lb; fine fowls at 2s per couple; and geese weighing 8lbs for 3s 6d each.

From the London Courier Nov. 15.

This was the day fixed for the meeting in Spafields, of the distressed artisans, manufacturers, mariners and others of London, Westminster, Southwark and parts adjacent. The meeting was advertised for 12 o'clock.

A meeting called for purposes which could only be meant to inflame and irritate, naturally induced government to take all precautions for the preservation of the public peace. The secretary of state for the home department was actively engaged yesterday with the principal legal authorities, the chief justices of the king's bench and common pleas, and in giving proper directions to the magistrates of the different offices—all the constables of the various districts of Westminster are ordered to be in readiness. In the city the lord mayor gave similar directions to the ward constables and officers of the city. One report was that it was intended to make a procession through the city to Westminster; another that the petitioners meant to proceed at Carlton House to force themselves into the presence of the Regent. But this they will not be permitted to do.—The residence of the personage exercising the functions of sovereign, must be respected.

In addition to the civil power there are detachments of military in readiness for any part of the town where their services may be necessary: the usual thoroughfare through the tower was stopped this morning.

At about 12 o'clock there were about 5,000 persons collected in Spafields. At a quarter past, a hackney coach arrived, from which four persons got out, and one harrangued the meeting. He began by saying "you are no longer under the government of Pitt. Be firm and you will conquer. Individually you are no thing—collectively you are every thing. You have enemies here, so mind. Indeed wherever you meet you have enemies." A second orator said "Gentlemen, we are the monopoly of the world."—The friends of equal rights and freedom would not hear him, but put an end to his speech by pelting.

The meeting had not broken up when our paper was put to press; on the contrary hundreds were flocking to it.

Amidst all our domestic distresess and gloomy forebodings, the Funds experienced a considerable rise during the present week, from causes which no person seems to be capable of understanding or at least of explaining. It is supposed that money is becoming more plentiful, from the mere decay of trade, which renders commercial capital, in many departments, useless. Parliament, it is said is to meet somewhat earlier than was expected, tho' still very late, considering the emergencies of the times. We hope their first business will be to devise some means of employing the innumerable artizans and labourers who are now without occupation and of course liable to all the irritation and discontent which idleness and want must necessarily create.

A meeting of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants, &c. of Liverpool, convened by the Mayor, was held yesterday, in the Town hall, to take into consideration the most effectual means of affording relief to the numerous labouring poor of the town, now destitute of employment. A number of plans were proposed and suggested, and the resolutions, were finally adopted by the unanimous consent of the meeting.

One of the severest gales of wind, accompanied by hail and rain, which has been experienced in this town for a great number of years, came on last Tuesday morning about two o'clock A. M. and continued for several hours. Several chimnies were blown down, some out houses were stripped of their roofs &c, but we have not heard of any serious damage. From the sea coast, we are apprehensive, more disastrous accounts will soon be received.

On Tuesday last, two bakers were convicted in the penalty of 20s each, for having bread deficient in weight in their possession.

The Worshipful the Mayor has caused the measures of the dealers in milk to be examined, when several were found deficient and destroyed.

German papers to a late date have arrived. The present King of Wirtemberg on assuming the sceptre of his deceased father, published a proclamation, in which he assures his states, that "The welfare and happiness of his subjects confided to him will be the sole object of his efforts, and that it will be his first endeavor to ensure the attainment of these great objects, by a constitution suited to the spirit of the times & to the wants of the people and enhancing their prospe it." An article in the Flemish Mail, which had previously arrived, informs us that the new Queen of Wirtemberg, (the Grand Duchess of Oldenberg) was delivered of a daughter on the day of decease of her Royal Father in law, and that of the consequent assumption of the Royal Power by her husband.

Immediately after the ceremony his majesty's adjutant general, lieutenant general count Wurtemburg, set out for Vienna, to carry the wedding ring to his majesty the emperor.

THE BRIEF REMARKER.

We are naturally desirous of long life and yet are unwilling to be old; agedness being regarded by us as the most dreary period of our earthly existence not only as it borders upon the grave, but also by reason of the grievous infirmities with which it is commonly is visited. It is affecting to contemplate the ruins of art, the once superb palaces and cities of antiquity lying in unsightly rubbish; it is more affecting still to contemplate the ruins of that curious workmanship of nature, the human body; and most affecting is it of all to contemplate the ruins of Mind.

In the life of the dean of St. Patrick's. Dr. Swift, the following anecdote is peculiarly affecting. That celebrated genius for a considerable time had anticipated with anguish the calamity that befell him in the loss of his mental faculties. Not long before the calamity came upon him, he was riding out in the company of a number of ladies and gentlemen. On a sudden he put spurs to his horse and rode forward till he was out of sight of his companions; who, when they came up, found him upon his knees under an aged oak, whose upper branches were dry and sapless while the stock was yet green. Upon being questioned about the singularity of his conduct in that instance, he replied, he had been making his fervent supplication to God, that he himself might not, like the tree he was under, be withered at the top.

There is often a premature decay in mind. Ere the corruptible body stoops with age the immortal part shows evident signs of impairment: it not only grows forgetful, but feebler of intellect; and this not unfrequently happens to persons well informed, and of excellent intellectual faculties. In so far as it comes by the immediate act of God, or from contingencies which cannot be prevented nor foreseen, it is a calamity that we can only deplore with humble reverence of the righteous hand that inflicts it. But in most cases, it is owing to preventible causes, such as intemperate drinking, gluttony, debauchery, and the general train of kindred vices, which war against the whole man, and bring both the body and the mind to premature decay and ruin. But not to speak of the causes which are so well known and so generally acknowledged, I will mention one that has been little noticed—it is the habitual dereliction or inaction of our rational faculties.

Intellect often degenerates for want of exercise. Mental exercise is no less necessary for sustaining the faculties of the mind, than is corporeal exercise to the vigor and alertness of the body. Nothing so much strengthens the memory as the frequent employment of it, by which it gains strength as it were mechanically; whereas on the other hand, habitual disuse never fails to abate its power. Also our reason is a faculty to which exercise gives developement, growth and strength. We learn to reason by reasoning, as we learn to walk by walking. As one whose limbs have for a long time been confined and motionless, loses in some degree the power of walking, so one who suffers his faculty of reason to remain inactive loses in some degree the power of reasoning. Moreover even speech is lost by long disuse. Some who had for several years been in a condition of solitude and utter seclusion from the company of fellow beings were, when first restored to society, unable to articulate their mother tongue. Such in particular was the case of Alexander Selkirk, whose real history is veiled under the fictitious but pleasing tale of Robinson Crusoe.

Now it is obvious that age naturally delights in repose; in a condition of quiet, both of body and mind, of quiet bordering on inaction. It is visited with the feeling of lassitude not easily overcome; for which reason the most of those whose prime had been spent in vigorous labor of thought, do, in the evening of life, remit this labour considerably or altogether, and their minds fail for lack of exercise.

It is further obvious to remark that age seldom enjoys an equal participation in social intercourse. "Iron sharpeneth iron: so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." The mind can doze over a book, but engaging conversation arouses its dormant powers, and lends more perhaps than any thing else, to give it tone and tention. But a great many of the aged are solitary & desolate. The companions of their youth, and of even their riper years are mostly gone, and they have found none to supply their places, Living as it were alone in the world their minds are no longer expanded and quickened by a living intercourse with society.

If the topics which have now been merely suggested, were considered in all their bearing and consequences it would, I conceive, appear at least as a probable fact that the imbecility of minds once strong is more frequently the effect of their own torpid inaction, than of the impairing hand of time.

To those who wish for the prolongation of their rational faculties; and who would not wish it? I will venture to suggest the following short hints.

1. "Be temperate in all things"—in your desires as well as in your enjoyments.

2. Cultivate contentment and cheerfulness of temper. 'A cheerful heart doeth good like a medicine;" like a medicine it harmonizes and invigorates the body and the mind; while morbid melancholy and peevishness powerfully tend to impair both.

3 So educate and so train up your children, if children you have, that they will likely be not only the props, but the delightful companions of your old age.

4. When the years draw nigh, or are actually come, in which the hand of time begins to bear hard upon you, beware of sinking into mental torpitude or inaction; by reading and contemplation, exercise daily the faculties of memory, of reason, and of judgment.

5. Neither withdraw from society nor give society occaion to withdraw from you. As fast as the friends of your youth drop away by death, make to yourselves other friends from among the succeeding generations. It is not good that the old should consort with none but the old: it tends to deepen the shade of the gloomy valley which they are passing through, and to excelerate the impairment of their minds. The company and conversation of the young, nay even the prattlement of little children is animating to well temperd age: and, on the other hand age that carries with it experience and good information, and possesses a due mixture of plesant humour with becoming gravity, has it in its power to please well as to profit the decent and ingenious part of younger society.

In conclusion, lay hold of wisdom as the only sure anchour of age. "In her right hand is length of days." The firm belief and steadfast practice of our holy religion, as it yields the consolation of hope which, as to the aged, can no longer spring from the prospect of earthly enjoyments, so it tends much every way, to invogorate the understanding and to preserve it from decay.

Richmond, Dec. 30.

Virginia Legislature.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.
Monday, Dec. 30.

Some time after the house met, 84 members only being present, on motion of Mr. Mercer, L. th names of members were called over. A quorum soon appearing the reading of the names was suspended.

The bill giving relief to the people of this commonwealth in certain cases, was read the third time,

Mr. Dade moved to fill the blank, till Sept 1st, tho he was himself in favor of Dec. 15—the blank refers to the expiration of the time when debts may be delayed, bond, with legal interest and good security being given

Mr. Clack moved for the 15th Dec. The 1st of Sept was carried by a large majority.

Mr. Dade spoke in favor of the bill; of the constitutionality of the bill he had himself no doubt, strengthened as he was in his own opinion of the illustrious Chief Justice of the U. States. One feature, odious in the bill rejected, was not here inserted; that is, giving the County Courts power to fix the value of notes in circulation.

Mr. Mercer, L. rose chiefly for the purpose of expressing his astonishment that the opinion of Chief Justice Marshal should be introduced, it comported not with that illustrious character to give an extra judicial opinion: and he was confident no such opinion was entertained by him.

Mr. Doddridge knew not what might now be the opinion of the Chief Justice, that opinion has altered much from what it was eight years ago. if he does consider the law constitutional.

Mr. Dade said he received this information from a member of the house, and an honorable man.

Mr. Smythe contended that it was not a violation of the Constitution of the U. States, which forbad the passage of any law violating the obligation of contracts, or making any thing but gold and silver a lawful tender. It was in the nature of a replevin: if this be any violation of the Constitution, how many times have we been guilty. In the formation of the Constitution, those who made it had reference to a law of Virginia, forbidding the collection of British debts. To this they referred when using the expression relative to impairing contracts: We pass laws violating gaming contracts; contracts of usury, of oppression, &c. In this Legislature so perfectly powerless that we cannot secure the operation of justice in the state? The specie is not to be had; unless immense sacrifices sometimes perhaps several hundred per cent. are made; to prevent such sacrifices, we compel the creditor to stay for his debt, unless he will take his pay in the medium in circulation. He repeated that specie was not to be had; and that the Legislature had power to do justice between the creditor and debtor.

Mr. Dade called for the ayes and noes on the passage of the bill. Granted.

Mr, Mercer—The just obligation of fair contract, is what we are forbidden to impair by the Constitution of the U. S. as well as by all laws of morality, of divinity, of nature, of nations, of all beings; the Almighty himself has not the power without a change in his nature. The execution law was first made during the war, but was it a just operation to take his pay in a depreciated currency perhaps ten, twenty, fifty, or a hundred per cent? Or, how was it known that paper cuarency might not be. as during the Revolutionary war, when it was a thousand for one? A man, who has sold his estate, expecting a dollar for the promise of a dollar, might soon convert his patrimony into mere paper. Has Pennsylvania, or Maryland, passed such a law? In all their party struggles, dirty party struggles, as many of them were, has either party sought popularity by offering such a law?

By this bill the county courts can pay what paper usually circulates, how easy will it be for the debtor to speculate so as to defraud the creditor ten or twenty per cent. How will the usurers, extortioners and speculators, those harpies of the community, reap the profit. He would pass no laws against usury, but he not the less detested usury extortion and oppression. We have the whole court and bar of North Carolina, and of Georgia, to support the unconstitutionality of laws of this sort. Mr. M, spoke at considerable length on mortgages, replevins, deeds of trust, &c. and against the bill generally, as unjust, unnecessary and unconstitutional. He could not, and he asked how members who had taken an oath to support the constitution of the U States could, lay their hands on their hearts, and, voting for this bill, declare they were supporting that Constitution How could this be called, in substance any thing but a tender law?

The ayes and noes were then called, and were

For the bill,	79
Against,	49

So the bill past; and Mr. Dade was requested to carry it to the Senate for concurrence.

The House then went into a committee of the whole on the bill "To establish sundry Banks within this commonwealth," The committee went through the bill and made some amendments to it.

They struck out for example, the first day of Sept. next, as the day on which the books of the bank are to be opened, and substituted the first day of November next.

They limited the number of shares, which may be subscribed for in any one day, at thirty instead of one hundred.

They agreed to expunge from the following clause, the words in Italics "In case of such excess" (That is, if the notes in circulation exceed three times the amount of the capital paid in and deposits) "or of any violation of the charter of said Bank, or any other gross mismanagement thereof, the directors under whose administration it shall have happened shall be liable for the same in their natural private capacities"—And they agreed also to limit the amount of notes in circulation to twice (instead of three times) the amount of the capital stock actually paid in, over and above the money deposted in the bank for safe keeping &c."

Several other amendments were adopted, when the committee rose, and reported them to the house, when they were agreed to with some slight variations.

The bill will be again taken up on Wednesday when the house will probably determine what and how many banks they will charter.

The Life of Patrick Henry.

PROPOSAL

By James Webster, of Philadelphia, for publishing by Subscription,

THE LIFE OF

The late Patrick Henry,

Containing many of his Speeches, &c. Embellished with a Likeness; By Wm. Wirt, Esq. of Richmond, (Va)

Extract from the Port Folio for August, 1815.

"It is not without a sentiment of sincere gratification that we witness, in the following proposal, arrangements making by a competent hand, to do justice to the character of one of the most worthy and distinguished of our countrymen. As a statesman, a civilian, an orator and a patriot, Patrick Henry was entitled to stand in the foremost rank: Nor do his merits claim an inferior station as a firm, an honest, and an honorable man. He was one of those worthies on whose purity suspicion could never fix a stain.

"If nature did much for Mr. Henry's character while living, accident has not been wanting in its favors to his posthumous fame: for to have found such a biographer as Mr. Wirt, so competent as a writer, and so peculiarly well qualified in every moral relation, is not the least fortunate incident in his history.

"In Mr. Wirt's Life of Patrick Henry we are irresistably impelled to expect much: the materials being excellent, and in great abundance, and the writer able and devoted to his subject. Nor do we think that the public will run any risk of being disappointed by bearing us company in our high expectations. We hope, and, indeed, have no doubt, that the work will receive a liberal patronage."

CONDITIONS.

The work will be printed on a fine paper, in one octavo volume, and will contain from 350 to 400 pages.

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

DRUGGISTS, KING STREET,

Have just received from LEES PATENT MEDICINE Store, No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York.

A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Eaton's Anti-Bilious Pills

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the sweet feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, limited to mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the invariable ever possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds which is so often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness of the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or dullness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascaris, or small maw-worm; the Cucumerina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; foul and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face dotted and spotted.

Persons affected with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of chint"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys the hapless infant part of our citizens of likewise the wildest and most ca-
